

SENATOR URGES CONTINUANCE OF FARM CONTROLS

The idea that "the farmer has to remain a victim of circumstances over which he has absolutely no control" was termed "jungle economics" Tuesday afternoon by U. S. Senator Francis J. Myers in an address at the goals conference of the State Production and Marketing committee being held here.

"There have been voices raised from time to time in almost hysterical attack on this idea," Myers declared, "but such things as crop insurance are no more or less revolutionary than the idea of life insurance, or fire insurance or rain insurance."

Nor is the idea of planning future crops, of deciding what is most needed, what should be grown and how much, revolutionary, Myers declared. "In what are referred to as the good old days there was the fundamental belief that every year the farmer was required to risk his entire fortune, big or little on the gamble that the crops he specialized in would have a good market months after he had planted them. That was expected of the farmer. . . . Other businessmen had to take no such gambles."

Removed the "Gamble"

During the war, Myers pointed out "the gamble was taken out of farming to a great extent by the government price support program."

Yet this program was very similar to the program for industry, Myers added. "Gowing food during war constituted a risk, if the war ended suddenly or sudden surpluses appeared, unless there was support, the farmer would face tremendous losses."

"For industry likewise the government provided certain guarantees. New facilities were permitted to be written off in taxes over a period of five years. Profits were guaranteed so that industry would not be stuck with gigantic productive capacity it could not use."

"Congress Could Change It"

"Continuance of the program that lifted from the Farmer's shoulders the spectre of surplus and bankruptcy has been guaranteed for another two years. But like any guarantee made by Congress, it is a guarantee which can be repudiated by a future Congress."

"But the farmers are not yet out of the woods. While the need is still present for large quantities of food there seem to be a host of signs that the extremely favorable farm prices of the present will not be sustained."

$200 FOR NURSE FUND FROM ELKS

The county school nursing program fund to which several fraternal and other organizations have voted contributions, has been increased by an additional $200 voted by the Gettysburg Lodge No. 1045 of Elks, Dr. Robert A. Bream, chairman of the county school board nursing program committee, announced today. The action of the Elks was taken at a meeting October 28, according to a letter received at the office of the county superintendent of schools.

With contributions already voted and additional amounts which are anticipated, the total will reach $2,900, Dr. Bream said. This will include the $1,000 promised by the Tuberculosis and Health association, which is contingent upon a county-wide program being placed in effect. The goal is near when the entire program can be adopted, Dr. Bream said, with three school nurses.

Without the complete program and the TB society's $1,000 it has been contemplated establishing the nursing service with one or two nurses, depending upon the funds available. School districts will be asked to pay 20 per cent of the cost.

Stenger Will Direct Blue-Gray Tonight

Band Director Harry Stenger of Hanover will be with the Blue and Gray band this evening for the parade for the first time since becoming ill some time ago, it was learned today.

Members of the band were asked to report to the fire engine house at 6:45 o'clock to participate in the Halloween parade. Dress is optional with those members who wish to parade in Halloween costume urged to do so.

DISORDERLY CHARGE

Police today placed a disorderly conduct charge against Leland N. Anderson, Jr., 20, Jamestown, N. Y., detained in jail since Sunday night when he told officers he had run away from home. No reply has been received to a teletype message sent to Jamestown authorities, police said.

Must Remove Cars From Parade Route

Chief of Police Robert C. Harpster today warned motorists that vehicles left parked along the route of this evening's parade after 6:45 o'clock will be towed away and the motorist will have to pay for the towing charge in order to recover his car.

The parade will move from Meade school east on Chambersburg street, around the square to York street. At Stratton street it will turn south to East Middle. On East Middle it will go west to Baltimore and then march south on Baltimore to the square. After rounding the square it will disband on the first block of Chambersburg.

ASKS FARMERS TO HELP AVOID DEPRESSION

In summarizing the deliberations of the fourth Pennsylvania Goals Conference here George W. Schuler of Fleetwood, Berks county, this afternoon deplored the defeatist attitude of economics and members of the conference. "As farmers we cannot afford to invite another depression," said Schuler, "we must have confidence in the future of agriculture. If we insist on another depression we are bound to have one. If we plan to avoid one, and worked hard enough at avoiding one, we can save our hides in the post-war period."

Schuler spoke at the concluding sessions of the two-day meeting of farm representatives being held here in the court house and at the Hotel Gettysburg.

"We are now taking a page out of industry's book and we are here to study the economic outlook of the nation so that we may be able to adjust our production to suit our demand. We cannot repeal the law of supply and demand but we can adopt methods of production and methods of price supports that will keep the farmer alive while adjustments are being adopted," Mr. Schuler asserted.

Farmer's "Wage Law"

"The price support plan embodied in the Stagall Amendment is the farmer's minimum wage law," he added.

"Since the farmer receives 21 per cent of the consumer's dollar in exchange for the food the farmer has to sell it is easy to understand why the farmer will fare better if the nation's income is high."

"The members of this conference seem to be unanimously in favor of soil conservation. We have learned here from the reports of committees and from the glowing report last night of William Carlin, star farmer of America, that the conservation program will give us greater

Halloween Dance At Moose Lodge

The Gettysburg Moose lodge will celebrate Halloween Thursday night with what is expected by officers to prove the biggest dance ever held by the local organization.

Governor Merle Baumgardner, in announcing today that Don Peebles, orchestra of Harrisburg will play for the Halloween night program at the Moose home starting at 8 o'clock, reported that interest in the affair shown by members and their ladies so far indicates a large crowd will be present for the event.

Members and their ladies were urged to attend if possible in costume in order to give a traditional spirit to the dance.

MRS. C. LANDIS DIES TUESDAY

Mrs. Clara Kate Landis, 66, Fairfield, died at the home of her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Walter C. Fickes, 124 North Prince street, Shippensburg, Tuesday afternoon at 12:55 o'clock from a complication of diseases.

She was a life-long resident of Fairfield and had been ill for the last six weeks. Mrs. Landis was a daughter of the late John Martin and Catherine (Ogden) Musselman. Her husband, Charles Landis, died a number of years ago. Mrs. Landis was a member of Zion Lutheran church, Fairfield.

Surviving are one daughter, Mrs. Fickes; five step-children, Dr. Charles Landis, Litz; Henry Landis, Charlotte, N. C.; Miss Sabina Landis, Patterson, N. J.; Mrs. Charles Gruber, Marion, Ala., and James Landis, Fairfield; three brothers, Dr. Harry Musselman, Lancaster, John O., and William L. Musselman, both of Fairfield.

Funeral services Friday at 2 p. m. from the Allison funeral home, Fairfield, conducted by the Rev. Dr. Norman S. Wolf. Interment in the Fairfield Union cemetery. Friends may call at the funeral home Thursday evening after 7 o'clock.

T-4 J. B. WEAVER DIES IN GERMANY AFTER ACCIDENT

A 22-year-old Adams countian, T-4 Joseph B. Weaver, son of Mr. and Mrs. John I. Weaver of Bonneauville died last Friday in Germany, according to a War Department telegram received by his parents. Head injuries suffered when he was struck by a motor vehicle while serving with the U. S. Army in Germany caused his death, the family has been advised.

The telegram, signed "Witsell, The Adjutant," read in part as follows: "The Secretary of War has asked me to express his deep regret that your son, Technician Fourth Grade Joseph B. Weaver, died in Germany, Oct. 25, 1946, as the result of a skull fracture incurred when hit by vehicle. Confirming letter follows. His remains are being returned to the United States. The Quartermaster General will advise you of the exact date and port of arrival when definitely known. Kindly wire the Quartermaster General, Washington, D. C., whether you desire remains shipped direct home or direct to a National cemetery. If shipment home is desired, please furnish name and address of funeral director selected by yourself to receive remains at destination."

Had Five Battle Stars

The youth was a son of John I. and Ruth M. Smith Weaver. He entered the service at the age of eighteen years, being sent first to New Cumberland. From there he was transferred to Fort Custer, Mich., and then went overseas to the European Theater of Operations. He had five battle stars to his credit for participation in five major conflicts. He was born and reared in Bonneauville.

Surviving besides his parents, are one brother, Francis I. Weaver, and one sister, Mrs. Carl McGlaughlin, all of Bonneauville.

Upon the arrival of the body in York at some future date, it will be taken in charge by Funeral Director J. T. Kernan, McSherrytown.

REHEARSE FOR GHS FALL PLAY

Rehearsals are underway at Gettysburg high school for the presentation of the three-act mystery-comedy, "It's All in Your Head," as the annual fall play in the school auditorium November 20 and 21.

Included in the cast will be the following: Mrs. Robert Prescott, the tolerant, ambitious mother, Ruth Jeanne Diehl; Webster Prescott, Grace's easy-going husband, William Tipton; Melissa, of high school age and as modern and inventive as they come, Arlene Lewis; Mitch, also of high school age, Robert Shealer; Isabelle, Pat Sponser; Enoch Twitchell, a calculating old next-door neighbor, William Meals; Anna Lucasky, a cleaning woman "planted" by Enoch in the Prescott household, Mary Kay Baughman; Peter Wesley, "the strong silent type," Galen Keeney; Gurney Shaw, the suave, college suitor of Isabelle, William McKenny; Belle Lamont, a feature writer for a Chicago newspaper, Jane Ramer; and Sally Cramer, a neighbor, Caroline Bolinger.

The plot centers around the Prescotts who have inherited an ancient house. Grace Prescott dreams of establishing a permanent home, where family traditions and gracious living could flourish through the years. Even before the Prescotts can unpack their belongings, the odds seem ten to one that they won't be able to live in the house. Lissy and Mitch, the two high school students, are not thrilled with the new prospective home.

Admission for the play is the same as last year, 50 cents for adults and 30 cents for grade school students, tax included.

Committees for the play will be announced later.

College Editor At Press Conference

Gerard H. Borstel, editor of "The Gettysburgian," represented Gettysburg college at the Associated College Press convention held in the Hotel Continental, Chicago, from October 24 through October 26.

Editors and business managers from 435 college and university newspapers listened to professors of journalism from mid-western schools and discussed with them business and editorial problems of college publications. Howard Blakeley, science editor of The Associated Press, addressed the group on the atomic bomb question. Dr. William Young of the National Conference of Christians and Jews, who advocated more liberality for college students in speech and press, also spoke.

Vote for John W. Lucabaugh for State Assemblyman Tuesday, November 6. Your vote will be appreciated.

For A Bigger And Better GETTYSBURG

This is the seventh in a series of nine articles by nine representative citizens of Gettysburg on what, in their estimation, are the three most important community projects for Gettysburg.

By C. A. WILLS

President, Gettysburg National Bank

I am in receipt of your letter of recent date asking what in my opinion are the three most important things that Gettysburg should undertake as community projects. I think you have a good idea and it should help to point up public thinking on some of Gettysburg's glaring needs.

Protect School Children

In my opinion there are two things that need attention and the first, which needs it promptly, is more adequate protection for our school children at crossings. The police could help with this at the hours when the children are going to and coming from school. Traffic lights at York and Stratton streets, Baltimore and High streets, and Chambersburg and North Washington streets would help this situation considerably and, also, ease the traffic jams which cause so much comment by tourists.

Comfort Station

The second thing I think the town should work on is a public comfort station, centrally located. This, like the need for a public library, has been discussed for years and never any definite action taken. When a group that meant business got together, selected good leadership and worked their plans, the long desired library came into being. Surely a comfort station, for which there is a greater community need, should not be put off, year after year.

Three Young Artists Will Vie For $10 Cash Prizes; Spook Parade This Evening

With everything ready to welcome the spooks and goblins to Gettysburg this evening for the first annual Halloween parade to be held since the war, Chairman Paul E. Miller announced that prizes had been awarded to ten county youngsters for the designs they presented for the window soaping contest to be held in connection with tonight's fun fest here.

Curvin Krout, Jr. Kendlehart apartments; Betty Miller, Gettysburg R. 4, and Nancy Bushman, Gettysburg R. D., were selected as the three best artists who will this evening paint their designs on windows of the Rea and Derick store to be judged for prizes of $5, $3 and $2.

A $1 bill will be given to each of the ten juvenile artists who were selected from the 27 entries in the contest at a meeting Tuesday evening of the window soaping committee. Besides the three artists selected to recreate their designs on the windows, the following will be presented with $1 each for their designs, the presentations being from the judges platform near the First National bank building corner of the square this evening:

$418 Donated

Ronald Collins, Gettysburg; Carol Baral, Gettysburg R. 4; Louis Baral, Gettysburg R. 4; Paul Bobo, Gettysburg R. D.; Dewey Collins, Jr., Gettysburg R. D.; Elizabeth Harris, 215 West Middle street, and William Rudisill, Gettysburg R. 3. The winners of prize money and the unsuccessful contestants can obtain their drawings by calling at the Chamber of Commerce office.

A total of $418.50 has been received so far in donations. Treasurer Henry W. Garvin reported. The Halloween evening party will begin with a parade at 7 o'clock and will end with display of magic by two local magicians.

With $266 to be given in prizes the committee estimates it will, after all expenses are paid, have about $75 left which will be placed in the bank as a start for next year's Halloween affair which the committee hopes will be even bigger and better than this year's attempt.

400 County Girl Scouts Plan Council, New Troops

Adams county's Girl Scouts, now numbering nearly 400 in 20 troops hope that in the near future the number of troops will have jumped to 22 and that these 22 troops will be united in an Adams county Girl Scout council.

Fairfield and Mummaburg are both planning troops, scout officials announced with Fairfield already having named its leader, Mrs. Guy Brown, who was connected with Girl Scouting elsewhere before moving to Fairfield.

If the troops are organized before the end of this year it will mark an increase in the number of scout troops by 18 during the past three years.

Only Four Troops In '43

With all troops marking national Girl Scout Week this week the leaders pointed out that three years ago there were only four troops in the county about 100 members. One was located in Abbotstown, one in East Berlin and two in Gettysburg. Miss Marian Tupper, formerly of York Springs, organized three troops in York Springs bringing the number to seven for the county by 1944. All of the other troops have been formed since that time, with the most recent troops formed at Biglerville, Arendtsville and Littlestown.

With the growth of the troops the scouting officials recently met to begin plans for organization of an Adams county council to coordinate

SECRET GARDEN FINE PLAY FOR INFANTILE FUND

How a child's longing for the good earth and a chance to make "things come alive" in the soil led not only to her own health and happiness and the rejuvenation of a sickly, selfish and petulant cousin, but to the eventual joy of a heart-broken father, is beautifully told in the Clair Tree Major play, "The Secret Garden," to be presented under the auspices of the Woman's Club of Gettysburg Monday at 4 p. m. in the Majestic theatre for the benefit of the Sister Kenny infantile paralysis fund.

The story relates the coming of thin, sorrowful, unhappy Mary Lennox, 12 years old and orphaned, from her home in India, to live with her uncle in a lovely old house in England. Mary was given everything she wanted except access to "The Secret Garden." Its door was hidden with ivy and its key buried, because her lovely young aunt had died from injuries she suffered when she fell from the branch of a tree in the garden years before.

But when her uncle went away, Mary asked for the thing she most wanted, a chance to grow things in the soil. Here she found the buried key. She also found, in a room which he seldom left, her cousin, of whom she had never heard, a boy who feared a crooked back so much that he went out only in a wheel chair.

How Mary soothed his crying and whining, introduced him to "The Secret Garden," and made him strong and well before his father's return, is the concluding portion of a plot which should please and enchant old and young alike.

More Sponsors

Additional sponsors for the benefit play were announced today as follows:

Judge and Mrs. W. C. Sheely, Mrs. Charles Pitzer, Mrs. Harold H. Reuning, Mrs. E. F. Strausbaugh, Mrs. Milton Tipton, Mrs. Howard Hartzell, Mrs. E. A. Miller, H. T. Film-Forum Friday At Fairfield Church

Another film-forum on Africa will be presented at the Fairfield Menonite church Friday evening at 7 o'clock.

Two films on missionary work, "What a Missionary Does in Africa" and "Light Shines in Babukaland," will be shown.

The public is invited to attend.

MARDI GRAS TO LURE BIG CROWD

What is expected to be the biggest event of its kind ever to be presented in Adams county will be held Thursday evening at the South Mountain Fair grounds near Arendtsville.

The Halloween Mardi Gras, sponsored by the Arendtsville fire company, is expected to draw possibly up to 8,000 people to the grounds judging by present ticket sales.

Starting at 8:30 o'clock Thursday evening the event is scheduled to continue until the revelers have satisfied themselves that they have had the best Halloween party ever to be held.

The music of Russ Nace and his Spring Garden club orchestra will be on hand to provide music for the dancing feet of the patrons. Uncle Roy and his Dixie Serenaders from Keedysville, Md., will present good old time square dancing at another section of the fair grounds.

Professor Dumbell will put on three complete shows of magic during the evening and a motion picture, "Topper Returns" will be presented. In addition games and contests will be conducted.

Patrons are urged to attend the Mardi Gras in costume. A new car will be given away during the evening.

BULLETINS

Washington, Oct. 30 (AP)—The coal industry warned today that if the government negotiates a new wage contract with John L. Lewis it will be "much more difficult" to restore the soft coal mines to private operation. The warning came from John D. Battle, executive secretary of the National Coal Association, just two days before government officials are scheduled to meet with Lewis, who

Concert Workers Urged To Report

Workers of the Gettysburg Concert Association now enrolling members for the 1946-47 concert series are urged to report their new members each day to Association headquarters in the Hotel Gettysburg.

Mrs. Robert H. Derck, chairman of the membership committee, will be at the lobby headquarters from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m. daily. Members or others may reach her by telephone if they desire. The number is Gettysburg 529.

The membership campaign closes at 7:30 o'clock Saturday night after which a committee will select the artists who appear in the three concerts here this winter.

COUNTY COUPLE WEDS SATURDAY IN EMMITSBURG

In a double ring ceremony performed amid a setting of ferns and white chrysanthemums and lighted altar candles in Ellas Lutheran church, Emmitsburg, Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock, Miss Ruth E. Sorlie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Sorlie, Gettysburg R. 5, became the bride of Sterling K. Shindeldecker, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Shindeldecker, Gettysburg. The Rev. Philip Bower, pastor, officiated.

Preceding the ceremony Mrs. William Rosensteel sang "O Promise Me" and "O Perfect Love." The church organist played "Ave Maria," "Thru the Years," "Because," "I Love You Truly" and the traditional wedding marches.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a white satin gown with sweetheart neckline, long pointed sleeves and a long train. Her lace trimmed fingertip veil fell from a tiara of seed pearls. She wore a string of pearls, a gift of the bridegroom. She carried a bouquet of white roses.

Reception Follows

The maid of honor, Miss Jean Stitt, wore an aqua lace gown and

2 HELD AFTER BRAWL, ROBBERY

Two men were in jail here today, one on drunk and disorderly charges and the other for investigation, and two other men were being sought by borough police in connection with a fight alleged to have taken place Tuesday night in the quarters for transients at the county home.

Frank Cline, 27, of Berryville, W. Va., was locked up by Police Officers Charles W. Culp, Jr., and C. William Zhea while further investigation is made of his story that he was beaten and robbed by the other men at the county home.

Cline told police that the other men took his clothing and beat him into insensibility. He said that when he revived, he found himself lying in a field south of the county home grounds. He walked to a house on East Broadway, called a taxicab and drove to Center Square, where he told his story to the police.

Later John Marshall, 39, of Martinsburg, W. Va., was arrested, and locked up on the drunk and disorderly charges. Two other men alleged to have been with Cline and Marshall were not apprehended. Police went to the county home and reported evidences of a fight there. They said Cline and Thompson carried no social security or draft cards or other identification. No time has been set for hearings.

S.S. Officers Hold Banquet On Monday

The teachers and officers of the Foursquare Sunday school held a banquet at the Peace Light Inn, Monday evening at 8:00 o'clock.

Those present were Dr. and Mrs. Bert Bruffett, International Sunday school supervisors, Los Angeles, Calif., Rev. E. E. Denison, Eastern District superintendent, Harrisburg, and his wife; Rev. and Mrs. H. L. Myers, local pastors; Raymond Dayhoff, superintendent of the Foursquare Sunday school, Marie Reese, Fred Thomas, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Schwartzbaugh, Richard Lochbaum, Mrs. Fred Worthington, Erma Worthington, Mr. and Mrs. Milton Olson, Mrs. Harvey Trostle, Mrs. Franklin, Audrey Franklin, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Fissel, Mrs. John Reese, Mrs. Raymond Dayhoff.

EMPLOYED BY STATE

The state Department of Highways at Harrisburg Tuesday announced the appointment of Esther C. Dively, Gettysburg, as typist at $1,428 per year.

HUNTING SEASON TO OPEN FRIDAY; SAYS GAME HERE IS 'PLENTIFUL'

Rabbits, squirrels, partridges, pheasants and similar small wildlife are hereby given fair warning: The hunting season will begin Friday.

An army of several thousand Adams countians will take part in the attempts to bring to an untimely (or possibly, timely) end the lives of thousands of the animals and birds starting Friday, observers estimated today.

The county treasurer's office at the court house was busy this morning with persons seeking licenses and Deputy Treasurer Murray B. Frazer estimated that between 500 and 600 licenses will be issued today and Thursday by the office as last-minute license seekers line up for their permits.

License Sale Tops '45

Already the number of licenses purchased from the treasurer's office has exceeded the number sold up to the present time last year and the treasurer's office is just one of six places in the county where the permits are available, officials point out.

Game Protector Leo Bushman said today that the hunters should have a good chance of filling their bag limits for squirrels, rabbits and rinceck pheasants. A survey of the county discloses that the three are more plentiful in the county this year than they have been for a number of years.

Bushman also added that the only thing apparently needed now to make the season a successful one was cooler weather.

Fined For "Jumping Gun"

For the benefit of those who may decide not to put off until Friday what they can do Thursday just because of the law Bushman reported that he had already brought prosecution against several McSherrytown area men who paid fines of $25 and that he was planning to bring some additional prosecutions against others, all on the same charge of shooting game out of season. A person can get prosecuted just as quickly for shooting on Thursday as one who shot before that date, Bushman added, in warning that the season does not open until Friday.

County Fish and Game Association President George R. Martin said that a survey he made in the last several days disclosed large amounts of game in some sections of the county, very little in others.

CLAIM LOSS ON TRAIN SERVICE

Operation of the single daily passenger train between Gettysburg and Harrisburg costs the Reading railroad $45,000 annually, and the annual revenue from the train is only $4,400 a year, according to the petition filed by the railroad with the state Public Utility Commission asking permission to discontinue the service. A hearing is scheduled in Harrisburg November 8.

The train service cost is based on current labor and materials charges, the railroad contends, in fixing $45,000 as the "out of pocket" cost of operation. The petition cites that the railroad also operates two daily local freight trains and occasional extra trains when business demands it.

"Any freight now handled by this second class mixed train will be discontinued," if the petition is granted, the railroad says.

The passenger train leaves Gettysburg at 4:45 a. m. and arrives at Harrisburg at 6:30 a. m. Returning, it leaves Harrisburg at 4:30 p. m., arriving in Gettysburg at 6:15 p. m.

Summer Returns; Mercury Hits 80

Temperatures which have been extremely mild for the past several days reached mid-summer levels today, with 80 degrees being recorded unofficially at noon today. The reading at 7 a. m. was 61 degrees.

A year ago today the 7 a. m. reading was 48 degrees and a year ago Tuesday the mercury was down to 42 degrees. On October 15 the thermometer showed 36 degrees.

Last year the first freezing temperature was not recorded until November 5. The mercury at 7 a. m. on that date was down to 32 degrees. Snow fell on December 10. Only slight flurries preceded this snow. The first snow in 1944 was on November 6.

FACES VAGRANCY CHARGE

Borough police Tuesday night arrested John Moore, Lewistown, Md., and today filed a vagrancy charge against him with Justice of the Peace Robert P. Snyder. No time has been set for a hearing.

SPOOK PARTY HELD BY CLUB

The Adams county Senior Extension club met Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. Rose Murren, Hanover R. 4, for a Halloween party, which included a costume parade, pumpkin-rolling contest, square dances and folk games. Refreshments included cider and gingerbread.

The party was held in the Murren barn, members of the club entering through a "fun house," starting at a feed alley door, then through the alley and up the steps into the graneries. "Ghosts" led each person through the maze of log chains, bells, bales of hay, etc.

After going through this "chamber of horrors" the group assembled on the barn floor. Costume parading was held with all masked members taking part. Prizes were awarded to Ira Dunmire for the most original costume; to Mrs. Dunmire for the best dressed; to Thomas Murren and Armin Hostetter for the best couple and John Horner for the most natural makeup. Then the group attempted to guess the identity of the remaining masked members.

Simon Murren led the group in the pumpkin-rolling contest. Dancing and refreshments followed.

Plans were discussed for the next meeting of the club, to be held November 21. The feature will be a box social. The girls will pack boxes which will be sold to the male members of the club.

GHS TO HOLD PIGSKIN PROM

Bill Sanders and his orchestra will furnish the music for the Gettysburg high school seniors "Pigskin Prom" Saturday night, with dancing from 8 to 11:45 p. m. Admission is 50 cents per person. Students, or any graduate or person who has attended the high school are eligible to purchase tickets and bring a guest.

The first squad of the football team and the four senior cheerleaders will be featured in the decorations. Sponsors of the dance are Mrs. Anna B. Heintzelman and Robert E. Sheeds, Sr. The hosts and hostesses are Miss Ruth Spangler, Miss Gertrude Little, Miss Ruth McIlhenny, Robert Diehl and Melchior Sheeds.

Committee chairmen are: general chairman, Eugene Cole; orchestra, Charles and Fred Rodgers; invitations, Ann Raffensperger; tickets, June Sanders; publicity, Janie Ramer; decorations, Rae Strohm and Jean Bream; restoration, Luther Sachs.

COUNTY COUPLE

carried a bouquet of pink carnations. The bridesmaids were Miss Thelma Drake, who wore a pink satin gown, and Miss Gloria Horn, in a pink lace gown. Both carried bouquets of white and pink carnations. Mrs. Sorlie, the bride's mother, wore a wine colored velvet dress with matching hat and a corsage of cream colored tearoses and blue forget-me-nots.

Clifford Sorlie, brother of the bride, was the best man. The ushers were Kermit Treasler and William Hoffman.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the bride's home for a number of relatives and friends.

The bride graduated from Gettysburg high school in 1945. Mr. Shindler graduated from the same school in 1940. He served three and one-half years in the army, two years of which were in the Asiatic theatre.

After a wedding trip of unannounced destination the couple will reside in their own apartment at the home of the bride's parents.

Attends Conference Of School Principals

Ivan R. Mechtly, supervising principal of the New Oxford public schools attended the secondary school principals conference at Harrisburg on Monday and Tuesday of this week. Wilton R. Miller and H. Edgar Moul, faculty members, accompanied him on Monday afternoon and evening and Paul A. Comer attended with him on Tuesday.

The annual school magazine campaign begins today. Students salesmen receive cash commissions on sales and the general fund of the school receives a percentage of the profits. These school funds are used to finance various school activities.

The New Oxford high school soccer game with Dover high school, scheduled for Monday evening, was postponed because of rain. A future date will be selected.

School pictures of grades 1 to 12 were made on Tuesday at the New Oxford schools. Delivery of the photographs is expected the latter part of November.

The flagpole and marker are the gifts of the camp and the flag was given by the ladies auxiliary.

Denies Car Was In Hit-Run Accident

Decision was reserved by Justice of the Peace John H. Basehore, following a hearing Tuesday night in the case of Miles Weikert, Table Rock, arrested by Constable George Hughes on a hit-run charge growing out of an accident October 19 at Lincoln avenue and Carlisle street here.

An automobile operated by Mrs. Alme Tipton, Biglerville, suffered $600 damage in the accident. Mrs. Tipton gave authorities the license number of a car she followed after the accident, but Weikert, at Tuesday night's hearing, denied it was his car that caused the damage.

NO GOP CONNECTION

Adams county Republican leaders said today that the appointment of two McSherrytown men as officers of a "Citizens Committee to Re-elect Gross for Congress" had no connection with the Republican county organization, and that the committee was named by Congressman Gross himself. A paper filed at the court house designating Robert Smith president and Chauncey J. Smith secretary of the Gross committee were signed by the congressman.

FIRE DESTROYS BARN ON SUNDAY

Mr. and Mrs. Walter S. Crushong, New Oxford R. 2, whose home near the Pines church was destroyed by fire May 1, lost the barn on the farm by fire Sunday evening.

Relatives of the family contacted today said that the barn was the third on the site to have been destroyed by fire over a period of years with two other barns there burning prior to the time the Crushongs moved to the place.

The Crushongs had just completed milking about 6 o'clock Sunday evening and had gone to the house, when they noticed smoke coming from the top of the barn. They were able to get the cattle and other animals and machinery out of the structure before they were injured or damaged by the fire. The structure itself and the hay and similar articles in it were lost.

Crushong is having sale of his cattle Thursday.

The Hampton and New Oxford fire companies responded but could do no more than protect nearby buildings.

The house in which the Crushongs live is still uncompleted since the fire May 1. It was the second house to burn on that site.

NEW OXFORD TO FORM VFW POST

New Oxford veterans held an informal meeting recently for the purpose of organizing a Veterans of Foreign Wars post in New Oxford. Approximately 25 former servicemen of World Wars I and II were present, as well as the following delegation from neighboring posts, who assisted in conducting the meeting: Ralph D. Stambaugh, service officer at large of Post No. 556, York; Norman Tratten, past commander of the post; Harry Myers and Luther Weisenale, service officers of Post No. 2508, Hanover, and Burnell Warner, officer of the day of the post.

Those present decided unanimously to organize a V. F. W. post in New Oxford and elected these temporary officers: Commander, William G. Weaver; senior vice commander, Curvin Miller; quartermaster, Charles Brashears and adjutant, Benard J. Weaver.

Application for a charter was made to the V. F. W. headquarters, Harrisburg. The charter will remain open for a limited time and all servicemen who served overseas are eligible to join the organization.

On Sunday, November 3, a delegation from New Oxford will attend the V. F. W. service officers' meeting at the Pvt. Earl E. Aurand post, Harrisburg.

Jersalem, Oct. 30 (AP) — Three bombs, planted by tommygun wielding youths whom police described as Jews, exploded in Jerusalem's central railway station today. The explosions came about an hour after the youths stormed the station from two taxicabs in a hail of gunfire with the explosives.

Nose Is Broken As Auto Hits Truck

James D. Reaver, 25, Gettysburg R. 2, was a patient at the Warner hospital today with a compound fracture of the nose, severe lacerations of the upper lip and contusions and abrasions of the body as a result of an accident one-half mile south of York Springs on the Gettysburg road at 1:45 o'clock this morning.

Reaver, according to state police, who are continuing their investigation, was driven south and ran into the rear of a truck-trailer loaded with lumber and driven by John Elmer Weatherby, 26, New Cumberland. The truck, enroute to Washington, D. C., was owned by the Lafferty lumber company, Lemoyne.

Police said today that Reaver could give no explanation as to why he smashed his car into the rear of the truck, which was in low gear at the top of the hill just south of York Springs. Damage totalled $350.

A marriage license has been issued in Carlisle to Donald E. Slaybaugh, Aspers R. D., and Fay L. McCans, Gardner R. 1.

Seek Deposit Of Oil By Airplane

Clearfield, Pa., Oct. 30 (AP)—Mapping with the aid of a magnetic detector, suspended from a low-flying plane, is a scientific wrinkle being used in a 1,355-square-mile area of Clearfield and Centre counties in an effort to locate new oil and gas deposits.

The object is to plot formations of pre-cambrian rock, considered a good indicator of oil and gas pockets.

The survey is being made by the School of Mineral Industries of Pennsylvania State college and the U. S. Geological Survey. The state gave $50,000 to develop new oil resources.

MEAT PRICES RECEDE

Pittsburgh, Oct. 30 (AP)—Meat prices are gradually leveling off here. The buyer for a chain of self-service stores said supplies increased over the week-end, and that chuck roast fell from 49 to 45 cents a pound; plate boil from 36 to 29 cents, and sirloin steak from 64 to 59 cents.

There are about 250,000 churches in the United States, affiliated with more than 250 denominations.

HUNTING SEASON

As to the exact location of the game—that was a secret.

When the hunter starts out in Adams county Friday morning he will not be permitted to shoot any game of any kind before 9 o'clock in the morning. Thereafter however he can shoot from 7 a. m. to 5 p. m.

The hunter may bag legally on one day: four bobwhite quail; two Hungarian partridges, two ringneck pheasant cocks, four rabbits, six gray, black or fox squirrels and an unlimited number of red squirrels.

But if he happens to run across a wild turkey the hunter in Adams county will have to let the prize fowl continue its strutting. It is not legal to shoot a turkey in Adams.

Clarion, Cumberland, Forest, Jefferson, McKean, Perry or Snyder counties. Anywhere else in the state a hunter is allowed one of the birds. But one bird is the season's limit for turkeys.

For the season, which closes November 30 for the birds and animals mentioned, the hunter may shoot 12 quail, eight partridges, eight male ringneck pheasants, 20 rabbits, 24 of the gray, black or fox squirrels or combination of the three. There is no limit on red squirrels.

Trappers of raccoons, minks, possums, skunks and otters can start out Friday and catch as many as they can. In most counties the beaver is open prey too for the hunter or trapper—but not so in Adams county where there will be no beaver trapping this year.

The bear season extends from November 18 through 23.

DUDLEY ADDS GRID LAURELS DURING WEEK

New York, Oct. 30 (AP)—Although adding to his ground gaining lead, Bill Dudley of the Pittsburgh Steelers was more active in a number of other offensive departments of play during the week according to statistics released by the National Football League today.

Dudley picked up 30 yards against the Boston Yanks Sunday to increase his ground gaining total to 369 in 81 attempts for a 4.5 percentage.

The one time Virginia Star also scored two touchdowns and a pair of extra points to jump from sixth to second in the individual scoring race, five points behind the Chicago Cardinals' Ward Cuff who paces the league with 42 points.

Ties With Luckman
Dudley also moved into a third series. Christman has completed 56 in Chicago Bears for punting honors and intercepted two passes to boost his total to seven, tops in the league.

The punt return leadership was also retained by Dudley who has brought back 10 boots 153 yards for an average distance of 15.3. Ray McLean of the Bears is second with a 12.2 figure.

Trailing Dudley in ground gaining is New York's Frank Filchock. Filchock has picked up 274 yards in 54 tries for a 5.0 average.

Paul Christman of the Chicago Cardinals continued to lead the passers. Christman has completed 56 in 114 tries for 891 yards. Sammy Baugh of Washington remained runner-up and Tommy Thompson, one-eyed quarter back of Philadelphia, replaced Luckman as the league's third best passer.

Benton Leads Receivers
Thompson turned in the finest single performance of the season Sunday against Washington, completing 18 aeriels in 24 attempts that were good for three touchdowns in the Eagles' 28-24 win.

The pass receiving leadership was retained by Jim Benton of Los Angeles. Benton has gathered in 23 passes good for 393 yards and two touchdowns.

BISON SKATERS CAN TAKE LEAD

(By The Associated Press)
The Buffalo Bisons, American hockey league champions, have an opportunity to move into first place in the circuit's western division tonight while the Pittsburgh Hornets and the Cleveland Barons have a chance to deadlock the Indianapolis Capitals for the lead.

Currently trailing the Caps who are idle, by one point, the Bisons play host to the Barons, last season's playoff finalist while the Hornets entertain the tail-end Philadelphia Rockets of the eastern division. The Barons and the Hornets are deadlocked for third at seven points apiece, two points behind the Caps and victories for both clubs would elevate them into a deadlock with Indianapolis for first place. If the Bisons beat Cleveland, they will lead the sector by one point.

Bears Meet Springfield
In the only other game of the evening, the pace-setting Hershey Bears of the eastern division clash with the Springfield Indians at Springfield. The Bears lead the New Haven Ramblers by three points.

Pittsburgh battled the St. Louis Flyers to a 6-6 tie at St. Louis in the circuit's only game last night. The Hornets piled up a 6-3 lead but the flyers stormed back in the last four minutes of the game and scored three times within 80 seconds.

Morrey Rimstead started the final Flyer drive by netting his second disc of the evening at 15:59. Hec Pozzo sank his second goal 46 seconds later and Bill Allum tied the count at 17:19.

Don Metz and Wallie Wilson paced the Hornet offense by scoring two goals apiece. Wilson also assisted in three other Pittsburgh markers.

Linehan Unable To Coach Dodgers
New York, Oct. 30 (AP)—The latest burst of activity on the All-America conference coaching front today found the Chicago Rockets piloted by a "directing" coach while the Brooklyn Dodgers again were without a permanent field boss.

Fat Boland, former assistant to Dock Hanley when the latter was head man of the Rockets at the start of the campaign, was named "directing" coach yesterday in a surprise move by Owner John L. Keeshan.

Meanwhile the Dodgers, who thought they had a new leader in Fred Linehan, a one-time Yale tackle, received word from the Old Blue that he would be unable to take over the team's reins because of "the pressure of business."

Smaller Squad For Indiana Game
Pittsburgh, Oct. 30 (AP)—Coach Wesley Fesler announced today he will take only 33 Pitt Panthers to Bloomington to meet Indiana University Saturday, instead of the 38-man squad he took to South Bend for the Notre Dame contest.

The squad, which entrain tonight for Indianapolis, will include Bill Donohoe, varsity center who got into scrimmage yesterday for the first time since he injured his leg in the Notre Dame game.

It is estimated that consumers spent 29 per cent of all expenditures for goods and services for food from 1921-41.

Jockey Near Death In Track Accident
San Mateo, Calif., Oct. 30 (AP)—Nick Wall, fast, hard-riding jockey who always gave the fans a ride for their money, was near death today.

Wall went down in a flurry of horses' hooves yesterday in the fifth race at Bay Meadows. He suffered twelve broken ribs and a dangerous spinal injury. The jagged edge of one broken rib crowded his feebly beating heart today.

Doctors gave him a slight chance to life. And he may never ride again if he recovers.

Davidson Tops Defense Records

New York, Oct. 30 (AP)—Harvard and Davidson share the honors this week as the football teams owning the best defensive records among all the college elevens in the land. Figures released today by the National Collegiate Athletic Bureau show that Davidson is tops in defense against both rushing and passing with Harvard in second place.

Harvard, on the other hand, leads the field in defense against ground plays alone, with Davidson the runner-up. Neither is among the first ten in aerial defense, where Navy has been setting the pace since the second week of the season.

In five games, Davidson has held its opponents to an average of 105 yards per game. Harvard has a defensive average of 112.4 yards per game.

PROBE DEATH OF SCHOOLBOY

Harrisburg, Oct. 30 (AP)—A special hearing was called today at Pittston to inquire into the death of 18-year-old Carl Floucel, who was fatally injured last week while playing football for Pittston township high school.

Edmund Wicht, executive secretary of the Pennsylvania Interscholastic Athletic Association, said the hearing will be conducted by Richard McNichols, chairman of District Two of the PIAA.

McNichols announced he had summoned the team coach, and the township school's supervising principal to the hearing to answer charges that the dead boy was a graduate of the school and therefore ineligible to compete in athletics.

The matter was discussed informally at the annual meeting of the PIAA board of control on Monday night, but Wicht said the district committee was empowered to take all necessary action in the matter.

Several amendments to the PIAA constitution were changed at the annual meeting, but the new amendments must first be approved by the organization's legal department before they are made public, Wicht declared.

Bullet Jayvees Meet Terrors Here Friday
The Gettysburg college junior varsity football team will be seeking its second victory of the season when it entertains the Western Maryland junior varsity on Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

Victorious in their first test by a 27-0 count over the Johns Hopkins junior varsity, the junior Bullets will rely on the same team in their second test.

The Gettysburg soccer team will travel to Baltimore Friday to oppose Johns Hopkins' booters. The Bullet booters will be gunning for their second straight victory after upsetting Bucknell, 3-1, on Saturday.

Fairfield Cagers To Plan Campaign
A meeting will be held in the Fairfield high school building Friday evening at 7:30 o'clock to discuss plans for entering a Fairfield team in the recently organized Adams County Independent Basketball league.

The meeting is open to all interested fans and players in the Fairfield section.

Somerset County Is Given Airport
Somerset, Pa., Oct. 30 (AP)—Somerset county today had a new 119-acre airport—the gift of the commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Floyd Chalfant, a state secretary of commerce, presented the deed yesterday at a meeting of the county commissioners. Chalfant said it was the first time Pennsylvania had "given away" an airport.

"It is the commencement of the end of one phase in the era of air transportation and the beginning of another," Chalfant declared. County officials promised that they will have a "workable airport in operation within seven years."

Commissioner Ernest Johnson said that to do this, the county will need to buy 25 additional acres of ground in order to provide standard 3,600-foot runways.

Johnson said work on the airfield will begin next spring with Somerset county and the state each providing 25 percent of the cost and the federal government the remaining 50 per cent.

Vandals Wreck Game Refreshments
Pittsburgh, Oct. 30 (AP)—Thirsty vandals stole 149 bottles of pop from the Pitt stadium yesterday after they:

Dumped 26 gallon jugs of mustard. Broke 7,000 coffee cups. Destroyed 8,500 wooden spoons. Took the caps off 158 bottles of soda pop, allowing the soft drinks intended for the Penn State game November 23, to go flat.

East Berlin at Littlestown.
New Oxford at Fairfield.

Littlestown and Fairfield kept up their fast paces in the Adams County Scholastic Soccer league by scoring victories Tuesday afternoon.

The unbeaten Littlestown outfit nosed out Arendtsville 1-0 in a hard-fought game played at Arendtsville. After battling to a scoreless first half the Littlestown team scored the only goal of the game in the third period when Little booted one through the uprights.

Fairfield's aggregation showed plenty of scoring punch in downing East Berlin 6-2 in a contest at East Berlin.

The winners scored in each period and held a 3-1 lead at half time. Brown scored twice for Fairfield to lead his team in scoring.

Courthouse To Be Picketed Today

Greensburg, Pa., Oct. 30 (AP)—An AFL union official today contemplated using a picket line that would "completely encircle" the Westmoreland county courthouse in a dispute over use of non-union labor on a construction job at the building.

Charles W. Compton, president of AFL-Construction and General Labor Union Local 1451, said the band of 10 pickets who paraded before the courthouse yesterday would be considerably reinforced but did not specify how many additional pickets would be used.

Compton appealed to the public to "respect the picket line" but made no reference to public officials and employees who work in the building.

Sheriff Howard Thomas, who was out of town all day yesterday, said he had had no occasion to cross the picket line, but that if occasion did arise, he would not cross it. He said, however, that his deputies would be on duty as usual.

He said that his deputies would be on duty as usual.

CITE SHORTAGE OF VOCATIONAL COURSES IN PA.

Harrisburg, Oct. 30 (AP)—Although two-thirds of Pennsylvania's workers make their living with their hands in "blue collar" jobs, less than half of the commonwealth's high schools offer vocational courses, the state Chamber of Commerce reported today.

"A criticism of the public school system frequently voiced in Pennsylvania is that vocational training facilities are inadequate and not sufficiently related to the needs of the state," declared the state Chamber's committee on education in a report on the school system.

"Analysis of the factual data presently available seems to support this criticism."

The committee said the shortage of vocational education facilities is due in part to the facts that courses, if properly taught, are expensive; a shortage of qualified teachers; the problem of obtaining proper equipment; and "the fact that over 1,000 school districts still are attempting to operate secondary school systems."

Adding "there may be other, perhaps more basic, causes," the committee said business and industrial leaders, and organized labor might re-examine their policies on vocational training and education.

"Educators, themselves, who have engaged in a considerable amount of internal strife over vocational education (which may not have been entirely beneficial) may find just cause to analyze educational theories in the light of present day actualities."

The committee, which is headed by Ralph E. Weeks, of Scranton, noted that of the 533,000 pupils enrolled in the 9th through 12th grades in 1940 in Pennsylvania, only about 55,000 were taking vocational courses while another 80,000 were studying commercial courses.

Seattle, (AP)—The Traffic Violations Bureau opened an envelope to find a marked entry in the Seattle Times' weekly contest to guess the outcome of 20 major football games. The Times received an envelope with a traffic ticket and a $2 check to cover it. Telephones jingled. An exchange was made. But the confused guesser-motorist didn't win the contest. He had only 14 correct.

Tired, "All-in"—Listless Feeling Brought To Halt

As Vibrant Energy Is Released To Every Muscle, Fibre, Cell

Do you get up in the mornings still tired, feel down-and-out all day? Have you checked-up on your blood strength lately? Overwork, undue worry, cold, flu or other illness often wears down the red-blood-cells.

Every day—every hour—millions of tiny red-blood-cells must pour forth from the marrow of your bones to replace those that are worn-out. A low blood count may affect you in several ways: no appetite, no energy, no resistance to infection and disease.

To get real relief you must keep up your blood strength. Medical authorities, by analysis of the blood, have by positive proof shown that SSS Tonic is amazingly effective in building up low blood strength in non-organic nutritional anemia. This is due to the SSS Tonic formula which contains special and potent activating ingredients.

Also, SSS Tonic helps you enjoy the digestive juice when it is non-organic too little or scanty—thus the stomach will have little cause to get balky with gas, bloating and give off that sour food taste.

Don't wait! Energize your body with rich, red-blood start on SSS Tonic now. As vigorous blood surges throughout your whole body, greater freshness and strength should make you eat, better, sleep better, feel better, work better, play better, have a healthy color glow in your skin—from flesh fill out, healthy millions of bottles sold. Get a bottle from your drug store. SSS Tonic helps Build Sturdy Health.

Get Invitations For Cage Matches

Williamsport, Pa., Oct. 30 (AP)—J. M. Good, chairman of the National YMCA basketball committee, announced today invitations have begun to roll in for the National Cage championship matches to be held, a site not as yet determined.

The tournament has not been held since 1942 because of wartime traveling restrictions. Good said 1946-47 eliminations will be conducted on a statewide basis with the winners qualifying for the National tourney.

State Acquires Schuylkill Acres

Harrisburg, Oct. 30 (AP)—The Department of Forests and Waters announced the acquisition of 296 acres in Schuylkill county in the vicinity of the proposed Auburn deslting basin, part of the commonwealth's $5,000,000 program to clean up the upper reaches of the Schuylkill river.

James A. Kell, secretary of Forests and Waters, said O. Ben Gipple, special representative, closed negotiations for tracts owned by Samuel E. Hoffman and the Philadelphia and Reading Coal and Iron company in West Brunswick township. His office said the cost of the tracts was unavailable.

Paper was first used in China around 100 A.D.

Guides Banquet at Abbotstown: Optimism for the future of Gettysburg
as a growing tourist center was the keynote of the speeches delivered Wednesday evening at the banquet of the Gettysburg Battlefield Guides held at the Altland Hotel, Abbotstown. Thirty-one guides partook of a chicken and waffle dinner.

J. Warren Gilbert was the toastmaster for the occasion and he called upon Andrew Hartman, James McDonnell, Harry Koch and Herbert Allison.

Wed In Parsonage: Guy Benson
Miller and Erma Lucinda Shuyler, both of Gettysburg, were married Monday at the United Brethren parsonage by the pastor, Rev. E. H.
Hummelbaugh.

New Senator Crow: (By Associated Press) Washington, Oct. 24—William E. Crow, appointed by Governor William Sproul to succeed late Senator Knox, of Pennsylvania, took his seat today in the Senate. When he appeared in the chamber, he was greeted with applause from the Republican side and the galleries which were occupied by a delegation of Pennsylvanians who came to Washington to see Mr. Crow sworn in.

Belgian Hero of War Tours Field: General Baron Jacques, leader of the heroic Belgian forces in the World War, in America now to attend the national convention of the American Legion in Kansas City, on Tuesday afternoon toured the greatest battlefield of the Civil War
as the guest of the Gettysburg Battlefield Commission. Colonel E. B.
Cope conducted the party of which General Jacques was a member. He came here from Washington by motor.

Garbed in the field uniform of the Belgian officer and bedecked with badges of honor, General Jacques presented a distinguished appearance as he alighted at the Eagle
Hotel where dinner was served.
After the tour of the field the party returned to Washington.

Military Burial For C. W. Sheads:
Funeral services over the body of Charles William Sheads, veteran of the Civil War and life long resident of Gettysburg who died on Saturday afternoon at the age of 77, were held from his late home on East Middle street, on Tuesday at 1:30 o'clock.

Dr. T. C. Billheimer, chaplain of the Corporal Skelly Grand Army Post, conducted the services at the home, assisted by J. A. Clutz, commander of the post.

At the conclusion of the Grand Army Post services at the grave in Evergreen Cemetery a firing squad composed of members of the local Sons of Veterans' Post fired three volleys over the open grave. The firing squad was in charge of Sergeant O. G. McPherson, and was composed of Corporals W. J. Forney and David A. Tawney and Private Leroy Sheads, Norman Caskey, C. A.
Swisher, M. W. Murray, Glenn A.
Sadler, and Glenn O. Tipton. Bugler Fred H. Swisher blew taps.

The pallbearers at the house and grave were: James B. Aumen, Dr.
C. B. Stouffer, Harry Weaver, Horace Smiley, C. A. Sheads and J. E.
Snyder.

Today's TalkFRONTIERS OF LIFE

Louis Pasteur, in 1888, stated that there were two opposing laws that seemed in contest. One "a law of blood and death, opening out each day new modes of destruction, forces nations to be always ready for battle. The other, a law of peace, work, and health, whose aim is to deliver man from the calamities which beset him. The one seeks violent conquests, the other the relief of mankind."

The great Pasteur did not know which should finally prevail, but he said that "science, in obeying the law of humanity, will always labor to enlarge the frontiers of life."

Thousands of able and unselfish minds are giving their thoughts to this great problem. They are seeking to still enlarge the frontiers of life, to give hope to the discouraged, will to the fighters for freedom and security, and a new spiritual cast to the world. For how futile are hatreds, bickerings, and aggressive aims, that only poison the soil that they touch!

The "law of humanity" is universal. It has no selfish end. It is always at the frontiers of life—ever hoping for a forward advance. But not until it engrosses the minds of all leaders, seeping into their hearts, can it be said that is on the march. It has a personal responsibility. Men are merely items, but they make up the whole that gives substance to all human victories.

Those early pioneers, to whom we owe so much, were forever pushing forward. They knew no permanent frontier. On and on, was their motto. But their purpose was enlargement, development and expansion, of their mental and spiritual horizon, as well as the gaining of untitled soil for their new homes and sustenance.

Land frontiers may easily be met in time, but mental and spiritual frontiers are limitless. And there are no frontiers to knowledge. Every time that a victory has been gained over some disease, or human problem, life's frontier becomes enlarged!

Tomorrow Mr. Adams will talk on the subject: "Attitude of Mind"

Just FolksHOSPITAL CHECK-UP

Said the doctor unto me:
"Time that checked up you should be.

Give us just a day or two
So we can go over you."
Over, under, searching bent,
Also in and out they went.
These the orders at the start
Written on the check-up chart:

"Count his fingers, count his toes.
Get a picture of his nose.
Take his pulse and temperature.
Read his pressure; make it sure.
Into his possessions probe.
List his wrist watch, ring and robe,
Hose and underwear and ties;
If a white shirt, get the size!

"Serve no breakfast, eggs or bacon.
Until samples have been taken.
Tap his kneecaps with a hammer.
Note his eyebrows, parse his grammar.

Check his ears—there should be two—
Finger nails, say, pink or blue.
Have the experts of the staff
Get X-rays and cardiograph."

If at this he still can smile,
He will live for quite a while.

BEER STRIKE MAY SPREAD TO FOOD SUPPLIES

Pittsburgh, Oct. 30 (AP)—A shadow of a possible famine hung over this strike-haunted city today as the AFL-Teamsters union, engaged in a jurisdictional war against the CIO-United Brewery Workers, threatened to embargo hauling of food and other supplies from Pittsburgh railroad yards.

Melvin W. Humphreys, president of Teamster Local 249, declared the step, which is to be submitted to a vote of union members, would be taken in retaliation for reported rail shipments of coal through AFL picket lines to Pittsburgh area breweries.

Lester Hunt, spokesman for the International Teamsters, said the railroads had not furnished coal to the breweries prior to the strike and that the union objected to them giving this extra service because of the strike.

Railroad officials did not comment immediately on the proposed embargo.

Conference Fails

Hunt described as a "complete failure" a peace conference between AFL and CIO leaders Monday in the chambers of Judge Henry El-lenbogen. Hunt said the judge asked for a 15-day truce in the negotiations and declared this proposal was unsatisfactory to the Teamsters. However, the representatives agreed to meet again today in Judge Ellenbogen's office.

The conference was called after the Teamsters Union announced it would seek an injunction to restrain an insurgent group of beer distributors from seceding from the Western Pennsylvania Beer Distributors association.

The injunction proposal stemmed from a published statement by the rebel distributors that the association was "being run for and by the AFL Teamsters." The AFL contended its contract with the association provided that members would not handle any beer from breweries which the AFL regarded as "unfair."

Many Breweries Closed

The union had forbidden distributors to handle beer from Pittsburgh breweries under that contract but a minority group—estimated at about 50 of the 700 members—announced they would ignore the AFL instructions.

Hunt, who did not participate in the conference in Ellenbogen's office, said the AFL injunction would be filed as planned.

The Teamsters reported about one-third of the state's 63 breweries have been closed or are "on such limited production they might as well be closed." No list of closed breweries was issued but the union said they included plants in Philadelphia and Uniontown.

Punctual HabitsPay Off For Miner

Pittston, Pa., Oct. 30 (AP)—Punctuality paid off for Benjamin Deski, 58, a miner who had a reputation for being on time for meals.

When he failed to return on time
yesterday from an anthracite pit, his wife went to look for him and noticed a bulldozer operator filling in abandoned mine shafts.

Fearful her husband had been buried alive, she told the operator about her husband and he summoned a rescue crew.

Two hours later, workers recovered her husband unharmed from a mine shaft.

Washington, Oct. 30 (AP)—A House committee's inquiry into what happened to $345,000 worth of new machinery which admittedly was sold by the War Assets Administration as junk has turned to the man who bought the "scrap" for $27,000.

He is Philip Bailis of the firm of Max Bailis and Son, Philadelphia scrap dealers, who has been subpoenaed to appear before the House
Surplus Property Investigating committee.

The committee was told yesterday
by Philadelphia WAA witnesses that 643 tractor power control units which had been stored in a WAA warehouse at Fullerton, Pa., had been erroneously listed and sold to Bailis as scrap for a high bid of $16,590 a gross ton, although all the units were "bram-new."

Committee counsel figured that on this basis the government received $8.80 a unit for machinery which it had purchased for $337 a unit.

Says Atom ControlWill Vitalize UN

Philadelphia, Oct. 30 (AP)—World control of atomic energy will vitalize the United Nations and open the way to a "rule of world law," David E. Lilienthal, newly appointed chairman of the U. S. atomic energy commission, said.

Speaking last night at a joint meeting sponsored by the Philadelphia forum, the United Nations council of Philadelphia and the as-

University of Pittsburgh, said yesterday:

"Coach Kerr was not using his best men. He was playing favorites.
That is why Colgate has been losing football games."

Colgate, which plays Lafayette at Easton, Pa., Saturday, has a record of one victory and three defeats.
The Red Raiders trounced Kings Point, but lost to Yale, Cornell and Penn State.

Kerr declared that Matisi, as a third string fullback, was used as "much as possible in the proper development of the Colgate football team."

sociation of Philadelphia scientists, Lilienthal said United Nations' control of atomic energy will not "guarantee an end to war." However, he continued, it will help prevent wars by eliminating "constant fear of surprise attack by this surprise weapon."

Lilienthal, who was appointed to his new post Monday, said:
"Only by collaboration among the nations and peoples of the world can this evil cloud be removed and the full benefits to men of his magnificent discovery realized."

CIVILIAN BOARD READY TO GUIDE U.S. INTO ATOMIC AGE; 5 MEMBERS

By MARVIN L. ARROWSMITH

Washington, Oct. 30 (AP)—A five-man board of civilians made ready today to take over from the army the momentous task of guiding this country into the atomic age.

The five—a federal power expert, a physicist, an editor, a retired rear admiral and an investment banker—thus shouldered "responsibilities as great as any men have ever assumed in peacetime."

"Those were the words of President Truman used in announcing the make-up of the all-powerful new Atomic Energy Commission, headed by David E. Lillenthal as chairman. "Awesome" Consequences

"The consequences of our work, for good or evil, are awesome," Lillenthal said, yielding up his chairmanship of the Tennessee Valley Authority to accept the assignment.

With Lillenthal, Mr. Truman selected for the commission set up three months ago by Congress:

Dr. Robert F. Bacher, 51-year-old Cornell university physicist who helped develop the atomic bomb. He is scientific consultant to Bernard M. Baruch, American representative to the United Nations Atomic Energy Commission.

William W. Waymack, 58, editor of the Des Moines Register and winner of the Pulitzer award in 1937 for distinguished editorial writing. He also is a director of both the Chicago Federal Reserve Bank and the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace.

Other Members
Rear Admiral Lewis L. Strauss, retired, 50, former member of the Army-Navy Munitions Board, one-time secretary to Herbert Hoover and now a partner in the New York banking firm of Kuhn, Loeb and company. He has played an active role in cancer research.

Sumner T. Pike, 55, an investment banker who until last March was a member of the Securities Exchange Commission. Pike, whose home is in Lubec, Me., quit the SEC with the explanation, "I'm stale." As Lillenthal's successor as head of the giant TVA, Mr. Truman named Gordon R. Clapp, general manager of the government utility since 1939. Clapp received the appointment, which is effective November 1, on his 41st birthday.

12-Weeks Search
The President announced his selections at a special news conference late yesterday.

He signed legislation creating the commission August 1, then spent 12 weeks searching for men whose "abilities and experience" he believed "will command the confidence of the country."

Their appointments, as well as that of Clapp, are subject to Senate confirmation when Congress reconvenes in January.

Of the unprecedented task facing the commission, which takes over from the army full supervision of atomic energy and production of atomic bombs, Mr. Truman said in a letter to Lillenthal:

Momentous Era
"The era in which we live is momentous and the problems with which you as chairman, and your colleagues as members of the commission, will have to deal are of supreme importance."

"The character and the solution of these problems will determine the course of civilization."

The President stressed that the commission will have to take time to study the army's multi-billion-dollar atomic program in detail before it can carry out "its very great responsibilities."

He said the transition "may well extend over a period of months," and that during that time the War Department will continue to operate the atomic energy program "so that there will be no interruption in work."

Senate confirmation of the appointments generally is expected, although Senator McKellar (D-Tenn.), already has served notice that he will do all he can to block approval of the Lillenthal nomination. McKellar long has been opposed to Lillenthal, whose TVA policies he frequently condemned.

N. J. Sweet Potato Harvest At Peak

Trenton, N. J., Oct. 30 (AP)—Harvesting of New Jersey's famous sweet potatoes is reaching its peak, the State Department of Agriculture reported today, with both prices and yield higher than a year ago.

In Gloucester, Salem, Cumberland and Atlantic counties—the state's sweet potato belt—the harvest began in mid-September and will end early next month.

The Department of Agriculture estimated the crop at 2,025,000 bushels, about 300,000 more than in 1945. At Swedesboro, one of the largest sweet potato markets in the state, farmers were getting from $2.49 to $2.89 per bushel during the week ending October 19, against prices of $2.12 to $2.26 during the similar period last year.

New Jersey, the northernmost state where "sweets" are grown commercially, ranks third in average yield per acre, topped only by Delaware and Maryland.

NO SURRENDER YET BY U.S. ON COAL CONTRACT

By HAROLD W. WARD

Washington, Oct. 30 (AP)—Despite President Truman's flat dictum that there will be no coal strike, Secretary of Interior J. A. Krug made it clear today that the government has not surrendered to John L. Lewis on his demand for a new coal contract.

By implication, Lewis has threatened a walkout by his 400,000 soft coal miners on November 1—four days before the elections.

Hours after Mr. Truman signalled that the strike threat was banished, a spokesman for Krug told a reporter late last night at Tahoe City, Calif., that Krug's action in arranging a conference between Lewis and Coal Mines Administrator N. H. Collison was "a compliance only with Mr. Lewis' request for a meeting."

Telegram Sent
Krug, who is on a western inspection tour, had telegraphed Lewis on Sunday arranging the meeting for Friday.

"Does that telegram mean the government will reopen the coal contract?" a reporter asked.

"It does not say that," the spokesman replied.

Asked whether Lewis was correct in interpreting the telegram as compliance with the union leader's October 21 letter demanding reopening of the contract, the Krug spokesman answered:

"The secretary's communication is a compliance only with Mr. Lewis' request for a meeting."

Much Speculation
Previously, Mr. Truman's no-strike announcement had been taken as indicating that the government might be ready to talk new contract terms—as demanded by Lewis. In addition, there had been some speculation that the administration might already have worked out some formula satisfactory to Lewis.

That was the broad interpretation, at least, placed upon the union leader's sudden agreement yesterday to negotiate with the government under the terms of the old pact which went into effect last May 29 after Krug seized the Nation's strike-paralyzed soft coal mines.

Until yesterday, Lewis had insisted bluntly that unless the government agreed to negotiate a new contract—notably with reference to wages and hours—the current pact would be "void" on November 1.

CLEVER JAPS SEEK TO CUT OCCUPATION

By RUSSELL BRINES

Tokyo, Oct. 30 (AP)—Japan's cleverest contact men are making a concerted effort to shorten the allied occupation and hasten the country's return to world status with international trading rights.

"The Japanese are pulling the wool over our eyes just as they did before the war," concluded one American diplomat long familiar with the empire. Suave Japanese efforts have helped widen the ideological split in this otherwise undivided occupation.

By discrediting Russians and Japanese Communists, the propagandists hope to win support for maintenance of Japan's present social classes. Perhaps, too, they can win American help in fighting anticipated heavy Soviet reparations demands.

Use Polished Diplomats
The leftist minority in Japan consistently supports Russian ideas, but its criticism of the occupation under General MacArthur is only indirect. Their direct contacts with Russia, if any, also are carefully hidden. And Japan's press, of course, has not been permitted to criticize any part of the occupation.

The conservative leadership is utilizing in its campaign polished, English-speaking businessmen and diplomats who long have cultivated the friendship of key officers. Dinner invitations have been accelerated recently. Tactfully, in intimate conversations, the genial hosts stress their major points. And they never forget the contention that unrestrained leftist or labor activity would mean national chaos.

"They are making some of our new officers think everything is wonderful and they soon can go home," an American diplomat said. "They are spreading the idea that Japanese businessmen and Americans see eye-to-eye on everything from international politics to the Japanese labor problems."

More crudely than their polished leaders, the Japanese people support the campaign, although their letters and petitions often seem honestly spontaneous rather than inspired.

Under the most favorable pre-war conditions, the Scilly Isles, 25 miles off England's southwest corner, shipped 85,000,000 individual flower blossoms a year.

Arrest Pickets At Allis-Chalmers Gate

Milwaukee, Oct. 30 (AP)—West Allis Police Chief Thomas Kastello said five pickets were being held in the city jail today following resumption of what he termed "mild disorders" at the gates of the Allis-Chalmers Manufacturing company main plant.

Kastello said no charges had been preferred against the men, but said they were taken into custody "for interfering with people trying to get in, and trying to tip over cars."

The chief said conditions were "about the same as yesterday" at the plant gates. Several skirmishes were reported yesterday, the first day mass picketing was resumed at the plant in the 182-day-old strike of Local 248, UAW-CIO. On car was overturned.

Networks To Give Election Results

New York, Oct. 30 (AP)—More than the usual amount of time given to an off-year election is being set aside on the networks for next Tuesday night's returns. In fact, two networks expect to cancel most of their regular shows for the figures and their significance.

By 1860 the American agricultural fair was an established institution, known in almost every farming county.

SAYS SOLVENCY IS GREAT ISSUE

(By The Associated Press)
Governor Martin, Republican candidate for the U. S. Senate says "governmental solvency is one of the greatest issues of this campaign."

In an address Mon. night at an Altoona political rally Martin said governmental solvency "cannot be achieved unless the federal government begins spending less than it receives in income."

He declared "we have done that at Harrisburg, with the result that we have paid all our bills, expanded all services for the benefit of the people and have a balance of $200,000,000 cash on hand."

In a radio broadcast over a statewide network originating at Station WFBG in Altoona, Martin said last night "the subversive elements who are trying to lead us down the road cannot get results by loud shouts, glittering platitudes and empty promises."

Attorney General James H. Duff, running for governor on the Republican ticket, said in a statement at Harrisburg that the Communist party "has boldly come out in the open for the Democratic candidates in Pennsylvania."

Caracas, Venezuela, Oct. 30 (AP)—Venezuela's first general election by direct, select ballot and universal suffrage appeared Tuesday to have been a landslide for Accion Democratica, in control by military Junta since the overthrow of President Isaias Medina Angarita a year ago.

SITUATION IN HOLY LAND IS FULL OF PERIL

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
(AP Foreign Affairs Analyst)

If you were the British government, what response would you make to the demand that 100,000 European Jewish refugees be admitted to Palestine forthwith? That's not an easy question to answer, is it—looking at it from the standpoint of, say, Prime Minister Attlee?

On the one hand he has President Truman urging that Britain carry out the recommendations of the Anglo-American commission on Palestine that at least 100,000 Jews be allowed to enter the Holy Land immediately. On the other are King Ibn Saud of Saudi Arabia, and Arab leaders, who are battling Jewish immigration. There even have been threats from influential Arab quarters that if Britain throws Palestine open to immigration, the Arab population of the middle east will turn to Russia for support—this being a threat to England's influence in that strategic area.

Jewish State Problem
One of the first points we encounter in examining this troublesome problem is what relation, if any, there is between the immigration of a hundred thousand Jews and the establishment of a Jewish state in Palestine. We must admit immediately that the creation of a Jewish state will tax the skill of the world's sages. However, broadly speaking it would seem that the matter of the Jewish state and this limited immigration aren't strongly related.

Some experienced observers feel that the addition of this number of Jews to the population wouldn't have any material effect on the bigger issue. If we were talking about half a million immigrants, it would be different.

Apart from the political aspect, 100,000 refugees wouldn't place a burden on the present Jewish-Arab population of the Holy Land—not with the help which they would receive from England and America. Then too we must remember that these distressed folk are homeless and want to be with their own people. They want to go to Palestine because it means "home" to them. Consideration must be given to that plea.

Capable of Fighting
Now it would be worse than foolish to think that the Arabs don't mean business in their insistence that they have their place in the Palestine sun. They are a brave people and if it should come to a showdown they are quite capable of fighting for that place. And just so would the Jews.

However, having spent considerable time in the middle east during the past thirty years, one takes the liberty of doubting whether the Arabs would resort to arms, or yet call on Moscow for support, over the matter of further Jewish immigration which was guaranteed to be moderate pending adjustment of the whole situation. There always is danger of racial rioting in that part of the world, but organized war is another thing.

Naturally it is essential that Britain retain the wood-will of the widespread Arab populations. However John Bull equally needs friendship of the great and powerful bodies of Jewish citizens in England, America and other countries.

So, looking at the thing from all sides, one wonders that John doesn't feel impelled to make the gamble of opening the doors to these 100,000 displaced persons. The odds are that he could make this handsome gesture to a needy people without creating fresh hazards for himself. There are times when we must take chances, and this would seem to be one of them.

INDUSTRY OFF, INDEX REVEALS

State College, Pa., Oct. 30 (AP)—Industrial activity in Pennsylvania during September was below that of August and also below that for the month during the war years, 1942 and 1944, it was revealed today by the monthly business survey of the Pennsylvania State college.

The index of industrial activity stood at 162 during September as compared to 151 a year ago and 170 in August, 1946. The index uses 1935-39 as 100 and is based on coal production, employ hours in manufacturing, and industrial power sales.

Bituminous coal production was the best since 1943 but anthracite coal production, while above that of 1945, was below the 1944 level. Coalloadings also were below the 1944 figure but above that of last year. Steel production was maintained at the highest peacetime rate on record and the monthly total was the second best since the end of the war.

CLAIMS SPUD TITLE

Pottsville, Pa., Oct. 30 (AP)—John Dieter, of nearby Hegins, laid official claim today to the title of "champion potato grower of Pennsylvania." John Schroppe, president of the Schuylkill county Potato Growers' association, said Dieter raised 825 bushels of Sebago-type potatoes per acre in a five-acre irrigated plot.

Chapter 9
Niel answered nothing because he was watching Stephanie walk toward them, her head up, lifted in birdlike wariness as if she expected them to vanish. The dark grey of her coat and hat flattered her delicate coloring. At her close approach the horses perked their ears and turned their splendid eyes on her. As she fondled them her eyes met his in friendliness.

"This is Black Handsome and this Black Gallant. We are utterly vain about them." Her reserved half laugh suggested a deeper humor.

"They're getting fat," mourned Conrad.

"It's so long since you've driven them."

"Oh, those old days . . . remember!" murmured Conrad. Niel thought they must have shared a lot together, like himself and Freya.

She looked unbelievably small sitting between them on the high seat. Conrad balanced the reins, then with a whistle they were off. A lovely tremulous harmony filled the air.

"The bells!" cried Niel. She was pleased by his enthusiasm. "They were made in Switzerland, toned like music." He enjoyed the thrill of unexpected speed, the tangy cold air, snow flowing backward like a glittering white sea and the continuous unreeling of green pines with here and there a flash of distant mountains. It was happy intoxication.

She felt it too. Her golden hair rippled back in the sunshine enhancing the delicacy of her features so that he couldn't keep his eyes off her face for long. It wasn't a beautiful face but she created a more intriguing illusion of beauty, particularly when she smiled.

Conrad urged on the horses, with extravagant flattery, away, away, and away . . . as if there was no world other than what was there with them. He felt a wild desire to shout but he sang instead and the others joined in. It was a little as if they were drunk, perhaps their senses were drunk. They raced down the valley to ward the river and as they crossed Niel wondered if it wouldn't be a good thing if the ice cracked open and they went down while they were still singing.

On the opposite bank they stopped. Conrad pointed toward the horizon to a lone skier and they watched him take the slope with a skill that held them silent; or perhaps it was his freedom to choose his course, freedom to swoop out of their line of vision when they desired to keep him in view so that they could think only of him, not of themselves.

"I'd like to try that slope," murmured Niel but when they remained silent he wished he hadn't said it because suddenly it seemed he would never be free again.

The sun was going, a violet dimness softened the glare of the snow as they turned back. After a particularly rousing chorus Stephanie asked who taught him the German songs.

"Freya Runstedt," he said quietly. A startled look crossed her face.

"Oh," she said, and dropped her eyes; they didn't sing again.

With the sun went most of their happiness. Nearer home Conrad urged the horses once more but this time Stephanie seemed too lost in her thoughts to laugh. They turned a bend and a woman was walking in the same direction ahead of them. Suddenly Conrad leaped forward. Niel felt Stephanie go tense beside him and he wondered why she was frightened. He measured the distance to the woman hoping Conrad in his sudden recklessness would leave her enough room. Now the horses were almost upon her, she turned her head to look at them and Niel's breath almost choked him. It was Freya!

He shouted her name, but his voice was so hoarse she couldn't recognize it. She smiled and waved as they flashed past her. For a split second he was going to jump but the speed was too fast. All he could do was turn and wave. But she was still smiling so he knew she did not recognize him, then the sleigh careened around a bend and she was gone. "Stop, damn you!" he shouted, but Conrad, his face blanked of emotion kept up the speed to prevent him leaping from the sleigh.

He pressed the back of his hand against his lips and Stephanie saw the white of his teeth biting against his knuckles. Tears sprang to her eyes. Let her cry, thought Niel violently, let her stare at my face till she can never forget it. Then she turned her head and slipped her hand under Conrad's arm and a long look passed between them.

He almost hated them for knowing something about him he didn't know. It made him laugh aloud so harshly they both looked at him and he hung a contemptuous look back at them before he turned away. Then he was lost in concentration on Freya . . . how could he capture anything from that flashing sight after years of not seeing her. But these two were Freya's friends, gradually his anger cooled so that when they reached the house he lifted her from the sleigh.

"I'm sorry," she said quietly. He tried to smile but couldn't. "Don't judge me too harshly."

That moved him. "I'd never judge you . . . or Conrad."

"Thank you." Her lips were trembling as she turned away to the house.

"That was kind of you," said Conrad. "She's unhappy about Freya and all this." Niel wanted to say, so are you, but one could only think such things. At the door of his room a cat rubbed against his ankles startling him out of his sober thought. Conrad sneezed it away and it frisked down the hall to a narrow door open toward them and disappeared. So that was the way to the attic. Then they heard Joseph laboring up the steps and he appeared at the end of the hall. So there was a back stair leading down to the side vestibule he had seen last night from the drawing room. If he could break into the attic from his room!

Chapter 10

Niel sank down on the edge of the bed thinking of Freya. She must feel well to be hiking along like that with skates slung over her shoulder. Skates! she must have been to that rink somewhere over the hill. If he could break out early some afternoon he might find her at the rink. As he hung his coat in the closet he heard Conrad and Joseph trying to catch the cat in the attic directly above him. If he could break through the ceiling of the closet, the rest was possible. On the left was a hanging rod with two shelves above, on the right five shelves. Standing on the second shelf he could touch the ceiling. His finger nail made only a scratch on the plaster. What he needed was a knife. He might steal one at dinner, only they always watched him intently like curious children. Failing that he must wait till morning and keep back a knife from his breakfast tray, but that would be a day wasted because he could not work on the plaster while Siegmund stood guard. With the knife he could chip the plaster piece by piece hiding it on the shelf above the hanging rod. If this house was like others the lathes could be pushed up and snapped and to cover the crack of their breaking he'd run the water in the bathroom. It was possible. And he must see Freya and hear more about Franz Steiner.

It was almost pleasant to lie full length on the bed and plan his own escape.

When Stephanie left Niel and Conrad in the driveway her one desire was to be alone. She went to her room and sat, still wearing her coat until the violet dimness of dusk blurred the pictures on the walls lending a tone of sadness that matched her feelings.

A knock sounded and she drew back uneasily fearing another hopeless argument with Franz, arguments which left a twisting line of conscious fear of what was happening, where it would end.

"Come in," she called and she watched Franz's approach in the mirror of her dressing table. Late in the evening he entered her room, seeming when he did a little awkward, unsure of his ability to influence her. But in spite of his mask she sensed some of his former gaiety. It crossed her mind that he and Vaneck must have made more arrangements.

"Not out of your coat! You've been in the house almost an hour." "I've been sitting here looking at my face."

He laughed. "What's wrong with it?" He stood close behind her meeting her eyes in the mirror. "How little it seems to change . . . in spite of all that has happened."

"I don't think it will ever change noticeably," he said gently. "When you are very old you will still look like a lovely flower." She stood up and he helped her off with her coat.

"I wish it would change," she said with feeling. "I think then I'd feel less like one living a dream." "You ought to pull a tighter rein on your imagination." As she remained silent he went on. "Don't be angry. I know you're an intelligent woman, that's why I want you to try to understand our country's problems."

"I do understand, but not your specific solutions for those problems." His deep breath and the flash in his eyes made her feel sick. "Don't talk politics Franz. I'm sick of it! Sit down for awhile."

"I really came," he said "to thank you for going in the sleigh this afternoon."

She looked at him quickly, nervously. "I didn't talk to him very much."

"But you have broken the ice. What do you think of him?" She looked away for a minute. "He's very kind."

"What a thing to say about a man like Dana. He's remarkable in his own way. There was alarm in her eyes.

"Did you tell him?"

"No . . . that will keep till it is time for me to leave."

"Then—"

"Then it will be out of my hands. I'll not be responsible for what happens."

"You'll always be responsible, it was your idea." Then with rising spirit, "Do you think you can fool his mother, what if he's in love with a woman, could you fool her?"

"Look here," he said triumphantly turning to the mirror untie the strings of his mask pulling it away from his dark brown hair. "Look," he cried, "feature for feature the same, the eyes, the skin, the mouth and teeth and even the voice when I choose it to be so." He changed his voice to sound like Niel's and looked down at her. "I could be Niel Dana . . . when I go to Berlin I will be Niel Dana."

She cried. "There must be a difference, but I can't see it." He laughed smugly facing the mirror. "Of course you can't see it—it isn't there. We are identical the American and I, only I seem to be the preferred copy." It was then she caught in the depths of his expression a cunning arrogance that made her think, there is the difference!

"I only regret that you are unhappy Stephanie, and I don't seem to be able to do anything about it." "It's more than that. There's no place in this new life you've chosen for me. We've drifted apart these last years and you've lost something, you've changed . . . you're not as you used to be."

"We all change, dear," he said soberly. "But I don't want to lose

New Oxford

New Oxford—"Our Church Helps the Troubled" was the discussion topic Sunday evening when the Lutheran league of the First Lutheran church conducted its meeting with Miss Nancy J. Benedick as leader. Dotty, 19-month-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard L. Myers, East Berlin, who was seriously ill, is able to be about.

The family of Harry J. Sterner assembled at his home recently to tender him a celebration in honor of his 76th birthday. Mrs. Sterner, with their daughter-in-law, Mrs. Maurice Sterner, and son, James. McSherry, who had been their house guests, and the hosts' son-in-law of the late Miss Jennie Myers.

Mr. and Mrs. Lester N. Yohe, Upper Darby, formerly of here, recently sold their Hamilton township property to Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Arter of that township.

The seventh and eighth grades of the borough grade school recently conducted the election of their class officers with these results: Snyder grade president, William H. Snyder, 3rd; vice president, Elwood Miller;

"No," he said hoarsely. "I've not planned it that way." "That would be more simple. You can't live two lives. Once you go there will be no coming back—Paul Von Beck will see to that."

She knew she'd lost. In a corner of her brain she never expected defeat, now she acknowledged it. The bitterness of it dried her throat, smarted her eyes. He kissed her then, but there was no light in his eyes, only regret that was like grief and the touch of his lips was more a farewell than anything she had yet experienced.

Refuse Benefits In Jobless Case

Harrisburg, Oct. 30 (AP)—Unemployed persons seeking jobless benefits in Pennsylvania are not entitled to a 30-day period in which they "may refuse any and all work except that which is exactly the same as their last previous employment" the State unemployment compensation board of review has ruled.

The decision came yesterday on the claim of Harry M. Eger, of Lake Worth, Fla., who was last employed as a carpenter's helper at $1.05 an hour and who refused a job as attendant at a gas station at $4.0 a week.

The board ruled "it appears that work similar to the claimant's last regular employment was not available" and also "the wages in the position offered were reasonably commensurate with his previous regular earnings."

Eger had claimed benefits for the week ending January 22, 1946, after he had rejected the gas station job on January 8.

LADY THROWS CANE AWAY AFTER TAKING NEW RHU-AID FORMULA

One lady, who was unable to walk six weeks ago, due to rheumatic pains, says she is enjoying a normal life once again since she took RHU-AID. In fact, she says she has thrown her cane away. This lady had to stay in the house for weeks at a time, unable to get out much. Rheumatic pains centered in the joints of her knees and ankles. She says she felt stiff all over. But in less than a week's time, when she started taking RHU-AID, the awful rheumatic pains disappeared from her legs and ankles. She is well and happy today and says she wouldn't take a fortune for the relief RHU-AID has given her.

RHU-AID is the new liquid formula containing three valuable medicinal ingredients. These Three Great Medicines, all blended into one, go right to the very cause of rheumatic and neuritic aches and pains. Miserable people soon feel different all over. So don't go on suffering! Get RHU-AID. Sold by all drug stores here in Gettysburg.

ported by market conditions of the near future. Some of our export market is sure to be lost. Some of our domestic market will shrink if high prices in basic consumer needs continue. Thus the support program will become even more important than it is at present.

IST ADD SENATOR URGES

"In times of recession or slump the cry goes up for 'economy' and the economies effected as a result of such a cry are, unless carefully studied and worked out, often inclined to be irresponsible and arbitrary. I think it is safe to say that the farmer will not retain his guarantees of minimum well-being unless the rest of the people do too."

Introduced By Judge

Judge W. C. Sheely introduced Senator Myers to the group. Bruce H. Whitenight, Harrisburg, of the Loan section of the state PMA, spoke on price supports in relation to potato loans. With the tremendous production of potatoes this year and a drop in per capita consumption of the food the bottom would have dropped out of the potato prices if the Steagall bill support prices had not been in effect, Whitenight reported. Because of the huge production the PMA is seeking to have late potatoes stored and is providing a loan program to aid the farmers in storing their potatoes, he said. Under the program the farmer will go to his county Agriculture Conservation committee office and make out an application for the program and pay a preliminary service fee. The county committee will send a local potato inspector to the storage who will determine the eligibility for the loan. Loans will be made on the basis

Teachers To Decide About Ultimatum

Uniontown, Pa., Oct. 30 (AP)—

Striking Redstone township teachers meet tonight to decide their answer to a school board ultimatum to return to work Thursday or face possible cancellation of their contracts.

Alfred Devito, chairman of the teachers' grievance committee, said the committee members had agreed not to go back and urged all teachers to do the same.

The 111 teachers walked out October 11 in a demand for a $400 annual wage increase. The board has offered to submit the pay demand and other disputed issues to arbitration if the teachers return to their desks.

Devito declared the teachers in striking, did not violate their contract any more than did the board when, during the summer, it became three months in arrears in paying teachers' salaries. The back wages were paid two weeks ago but the teachers continued to strike. The walkout has given the community's 3,200 school children a prolonged holiday.

of $120 per hundredweight for those potatoes found to grade U. S. No. 1 and 45 cents per hundredweight on those potatoes found to be U. S. No. 2 or U. S. No. 1 B.

Aid For GI's

At a banquet Tuesday evening at the Hotel Gettysburg, H. C. Peterolf, director of vocational education for Pennsylvania, urged the committeemen to give every assistance possible to veterans who have bought farms under GI loan agreements. "They're starting from scratch and need all the help we can give them under our conservation practices," he declared.

William Carlin, young Coatesville farmer who won the star PFA award at the recent PFA convention at Kansas City, was a special guest at the banquet and sat in on committee meetings this morning.

Dr. Andrew S. Beshore, assistant director of the state Production and Marketing Committee, delivered a humorous talk at the banquet. Judge W. C. Sheely spoke briefly at the beginning of the evening's program.

The annual consumption of petroleum in the United States is estimated to furnish energy equivalent to the work of 4,000,000,000 men on a 48-hour week.
